

One year after I graduated Catholic high school I eloped to Las Vegas, Nevada. My husband was not Catholic and at the time I didn't think it really mattered which church we went to because we all love God and we all love Jesus. That was the start of my journey out of the Catholic Church and I remained out of the Catholic Church for over thirty years. When I started to read the bible, I could see that our Catholic faith is steeped in scripture. I could see some of the sacraments in scripture. I could see some of the liturgy in scripture. I learned that the Catholic Church was started by Jesus Christ who gave the authority to Peter and it is continued in succession down to the present day. That was the start of my journey home to the Catholic Church.

Narrator: If you've been away from the Catholic Church for whatever reason, we invite you to take another look at www.catholicscomehome.org today.