

Study Days refers to practical, hands-on training for Catholic deacons. These study days are designed to equip deacons with the knowledge and skills needed for their ministry, covering a range of topics like understanding spiritual gifts, managing conflict, and balancing ministry with personal life. The focus is on making deacon ministry effective and productive within the local church.

Here's a more detailed look at what a "Study Days" typically involves:

Key Focus Areas:

- Spiritual Growth and Development: Understanding and applying spiritual principles to ministry.
- Practical Skills: Learning how to effectively serve in various roles, including preaching, pastoral care, and community outreach.
- Conflict Resolution: Developing strategies for handling disagreements within the congregation and within the deacon team.
- Ministry within the Parish: Understanding the unique needs of the local church and how to best serve its members.
- Personal Balance: Balancing ministry responsibilities with family and personal life.
- Effective Communication: Developing communication skills for interacting with parishioners, other church leaders, and the broader community.
- Understanding and Utilizing Spiritual Gifts: Identifying and applying spiritual gifts for ministry effectiveness.

For more information on the next Study Days, contact:

Deacon Doug Konzel

dnkonzel@eriercd.org